Okay, let's write this up.

Once upon a time there was a cat named Sweetie. She and I were lost in a snowstorm. We saw a house. We went inside. It was spooky in the house.

We went into the kitchen and saw two witches boiling frog tongues. Then we ran into the piano room. There were ghosts wailing. After that we ran downstairs to the basement. Sweetie peeked around the corner, and she saw a zombie. We walked upstairs where there were three rooms. In one room we saw bats swooping down at us. Then we ran to the second room. There we saw snakes. One was an anaconda. We ran to room three. There was a zombie cop. It said, "I'm going to eat you." Sweetie and I ran into the attic. There was a Dracula.

Sweetie and I ran out of the haunted house and never returned.

Let's call this adventure The Haunted house.
Now it is time to put it at the top of the story.
